ART SHOW

The School House was transformed into an amazing gallery of fungi with the creative works of Euroa Primary School students on display last weekend. Pauline Fraser co-ordinated a special event for the school that was positively received by students, staff, families and the wider Euroa community. It was a superb event that will be talked about for a long time by all that attended.

ROSS'S REPORT

It is great to be back at school and seeing everyone again. I would like to thank Ian for filling in as acting principal for me while I was away.

I was very disappointed to miss the Art Show last weekend, but I have heard from many people how successful and fantastic the weekend was. We certainly have some very talented and creative students and to have their work on display, in the one place, created a fabulous spectacle. Thank you to all the families who came along to support the show and to all the staff who contributed to the event. I would also like to acknowledge the support of the community also, with the Strathbogie Ranges CMN working with the school to make the event a success. A huge thank you to Ms Fraser for her co-ordination of the event. Pauline put in a huge amount of her own time to create the show and it is a real credit to her, and her art program that the show was so positively received.

Congratulations to all of our students who went to Yea on Tuesday to compete in the Division Cross Country Championships. It was pleasing that the students tried their best and competed with a lot of effort and persistence. Congratulations to the 12 students who qualified for the Regional Championships to be held in Broadford on June 15th.

Well done to everyone who was part of our Relay for Life team this year. The final tally has been announced with $29968 being raised by the Strathbogie Relay for Life. Of that total, the Euroa Primary School team contributed $2846! A fabulous effort and one that our school should be very proud of.

Opening night for our school's art exhibition 'Artistic Observations of Fungi and the Amazing World beneath Our Feet' was a wonderful success. Our collaborative project with the SRCMN ongoing since the beginning of May has culminated in this amazing display of children's art and nature. Over 150 people attended on Friday night in the Schoolhouse. We were entertained by the Euroa Ukulele Band and Rodney Horsfall's cigar box guitar blues music and lovely food was provided by Euroa's Fare Enough and graciously served by our students.

Massive vases of native foliage, picked and presented by Cathy Olive from Euroa's Arboretum, graced the entrance. Colourful prints looked stunning along with photos of our students engaged in scientific observations, sketching and written accounts of their experiences with Alison Pouliot visiting fungi/ecologist expert and natural history photographer. In the main room, student's paintings and drawings from foundation level to grade 6 covered the walls transforming this space into an impressive art gallery.

A superb scientific display with detailed written information was carefully researched and arranged by Janet Hagen, SRCMN project worker. Noelene Hull had created an incredible artistic arrangement of plants, foliage and fungi at the other end of the main room. Lisa Firth had done some very careful foraging; obviously she has very good eyesight because she had collected some tiny little birds nest fungi most people have never seen before. She recreated some exquisite little worlds with bits of moss and tiny toadstools beautifully arranged on pieces of bark. These were fascinating for visitors to the exhibition to observe through magnifying glasses and to recreate these tiny works by drawing and painting. Nature was in abundance!

On Saturday and Sunday students from our school demonstrated painting, drawing and printmaking along with three adult artists, Kelli McBay doing watercolour paintings, Catherine Mosely arranging mushrooms and leaves and foliage into pictures and Ian Firth doing coloured pencil sketches of still life arrangements of fungi. Over 100 people including students from others schools visited our science and art exhibition on these two days and many joined in the fun, painting and sketching the fungi on display.

Our school would like to sincerely thank the Strathbogie Ranges Conservation Management Network for their wonderful support for our school's inclusion in the Fungi festival, for the arranging of Alison Pouliot, fungi/ecologist expert to work with our students and for the provision of the refreshments on opening night. We have appreciated their general support and continual encouragement and admiration of our student's artistic creations in the past and now present project
